

- 118 Contents
121 Heide Schlüppmann, Remake. Frankfurt Women's Film Days

The Right to the Cinema

- 127 Alta M. Davis, Great Field for Women
128 Milena Jesenská, Cinema
131 Dorothy Richardson, The Cinema in the Slums
132 Christa Anita Brück, Destinies Behind Typewriters
137 Germaine Dulac, Independence
140 Irmgard Keun, [To the Film World]
143 Fredi Washington, Uncle Tom's Cabin

Female Voice

- 147 Eva Rieger, The Female Voice
149 Max Horkheimer, Theodor W. Adorno, [Sirenes]
151 Germaine Dulac, The Music of Silence
154 Dorothy Richardson, The Film Gone Male

We're Making the History of Our Madness

- 159 Julia Lesage, Feminist Film Criticism: Theory and Practice
162 Caroline Scheldon, Lesbians and Film
165 Renate Hücking, Women's Cinema
169 Annette Förster, Cinemien: Commitment and Professionalism
171 B. Ruby Rich, Prologue. Angst and Joy on the Womens Film Festival Circuit
177 Fabian Tietke, Cecilia Valenti, Film Strategies of Italian Feminism

- 181 Claire Johnston, Laura Mulvey, Linda Myles: Preface to the Programme of the Women's Event '72 des Edinburgh International Film Festival
- 183 Press Release, Schedule Overview
- 184 Claire Johnston, Dorothy Arzner: Critical Strategies
- 187 Members of the London Women's Film Group, Women's film festival. A report
- 190 Barbara Martineau, What I have learned in a year of women's festival-going
- 192 Eileen Abrams: A women's event at the Edinburgh Film Festival
- 194 Kathi Kamleitner, The Future is in the Past – Researching the History of Women's Film Festivals

Recha Jungmann

- 199 Gaby Babić, (Contemporary) History and Politics the Hard Way
- 204 Doris Kuhn, Renate
- 205 Recha Jungmann, Something Hurts. The Passageways in a decaying building are open to everyone but not everyone feels what their purpose was
- 206 Karsten Witte, Politics the Hard Way. On Recha Jungmann's Film Something Hurts
- 208 Gesine Stempel, Securing Evidence. 1981 Filmfestspiele. Between the Moon and the Sun
- 209 Doris Kuhn, Two Right, Two Left, Drop One
- 210 Eberhardt Seybold, Critical Inquiry: Our Mothers, Our Fathers (ZDF)